

Have your say

The 14 Neighbourhood Action Groups in Bracknell Forest are holding a series of open forums this autumn (details below).

Included will be a 'you said – we did' presentation to highlight how issues raised by local residents last year were addressed.

Residents can discuss with their Neighbourhood Action Group (NAG), local police and council officers the things that affect them and their families in their neighbourhood, and help set the NAG priorities for 2009/10.

A Neighbourhood Survey which asks residents for their opinion on life in Bracknell Forest will be delivered to every home in the borough in late August/early September.

Local communities, Thames Valley Police and Bracknell Forest Council are working together to target the issues that residents have said matter to them, for example anti-social behaviour, speeding, parking and litter.

The borough has been divided into 14 neighbourhoods each with their own NAG. These are volunteer working groups made up of residents, the local neighbourhood policing team, borough and parish councillors, council officers, local businesses, community associations, neighbourhood watch scheme representatives and local schools.

They plan and organise work and activities to address local concerns, feeding information back to the police, council service departments and other organisations which help influence the services provided. They also play a key role in reporting back to their local communities the work that has been done.
